

When Prince John was eight, his father decided it was time for him to start learning about the world beyond the palace walls.

So he sent him off to boarding school.

At first, John was homesick and missed his mother and sister terribly. But he soon made friends with some of the other boys and started to enjoy himself. He loved learning new things and was soon top of his class. The years flew by and, before he knew it, John was eighteen and back at the palace, ready to take on his responsibilities as heir to the throne.

1. What did John's father decide when he was eight?
2. Why did John's father send him to boarding school?
3. At first, how did John feel about being at boarding school?
4. How did John eventually adjust to boarding school?
5. Why did John come back to the palace?