Life of a Bird

A young bird needs to be educated just as a child needs to be, though not exactly in the same way. After the young bird can fly, he needs to be taught to find his own food, and also where to sleep.

Nandi, An Elephant

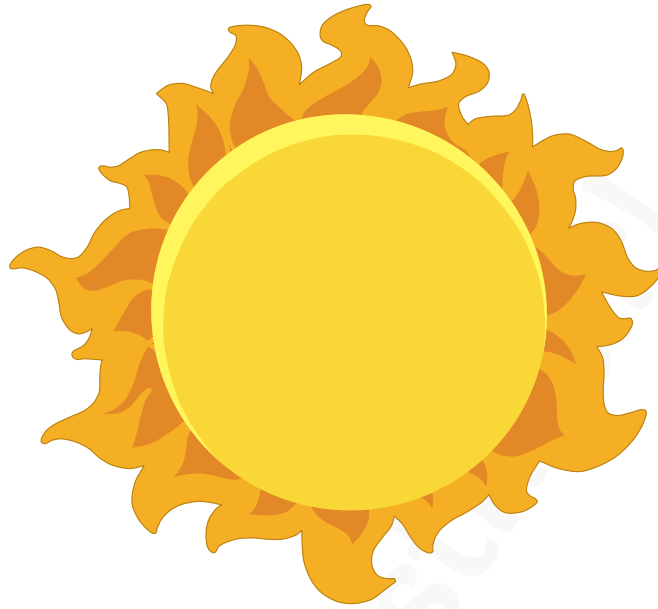

Nandi is an elephant. Nandi belonged to a Hindu prince and walked in long processions through the streets of cities. Then he wore gold rings in his ears and silver rings around his tusks.

Harry, A Curious Boy

Harry is a curious boy. He asked her sister to tell him a story about the sun. He wanted to know where the sun goes at night and where does it come from in the morning.

The Palace of the Sun

For days and for nights Phaethon traveled until he came to a high mountain. On its top was the shining palace of the sun. It had golden columns and silver doors. On its wall were pictures of the wonders of the earth and of the sea.
