

The curious bee and the trap flower

Once upon a time, there was a bee who lived in a garden. The bee loved to fly around and explore the different flowers. One day, while the bee was flying around, it found a flower that it had never seen before. The bee was so curious about the flower that it decided to land on it to take a closer look. When the bee landed on the flower, it realized that the flower was actually a trap! The bee was so angry that it decided to sting the flower. After the bee stung the flower, it flew away and never came back again.

1. What are we talking about?
2. What did the bee love to do?
3. What did the bee do when it found the new flower?
4. Why was the bee angry?
5. What happened after the bee stung the flower?